During the days of registration as specified above the registrar will be temporarily located in room 10 of Corcoran Hall.

Rogers Names Mish Most Beautiful Coed

D'Arellano, Nutter Runners-up in Field of 14 Contestants

As some 200 spectators and 14 beauties stood tense and expectant, Charles "Buddy" Rogers dramatically strode forward and selected the three most beautiful women in the University. Edith Mish, Dora Ramirez d'Arellano, and Helen Nutter were the three women chosen in the Cabinet room of the Willard Hotel by the famed stage, screen, and radio star.

Originally, the affair was to have taken place in the Fairfax room of the well-known hostelry but an unexpected influx of highly interested spectators so crowded the room that a last minute change was effected to a large corridor. Some straddled the bannisters; others gathered in the balcony above, all creating an exciting atmosphere for the final selection of the Cherry Tree sponsored beauty queen.

Arranged in a semi-circle, the beautifully gowned women were each personally introduced to Mr. Rogers by Virginia Hawkins, editor of the Cherry Tree. Mr. Rogers encountered difficulty in his selections. "They are all beautiful," he said while attempting to narrow his choice down to three. With the number narrowing down slowly, the crowd grew excited.

Finally as the group hushed with suspense Rogers strode slowly to the side of Edith Mish and declared her first place winner. His selection of the second and third place winners followed shortly. Mr. Rogers presented Miss Mish with a silver loving cup, a donation from the stage star and the Washington Loew's Theatres. Each winner will be featured prominently in the Feature Section of the 1934 Cherry Tree, Editor Hawkins said yesterday.

Panhel and Interfrat Councils Meet Jointly

A joint meeting of the Panhellenic and Interfraternity councils has been announced for next Sunday, February 4. Such a conference, an unusual event in the history of the councils, has been made necessary by the many policies common to both organizations.

It is expected that delegates who attended both the National Panhellenic Council and the National Interfraternity Council in Chicago last fall will report to the meeting.

No definite program for Sunday has been decided upon as yet, but Panhel is meeting on Friday to draw one up.

Citadel Will Replace Furnam College As 1934 Football Rival

The Citadel will replace Furnam on the 1934 Colonial gridiron schedule, it was announced last week by the athletic department. Second game on the George Washington schedule and the first home game, the meeting with the Charleston, S. C., team will take place October 12, at Griffith Stadium.

This change in the fall schedule is definitely regarded as one for the better, according to sports critics, not only because of the flash and color involved, but also because of a better brand of football expected to be displayed. The Citadel has gained an interstate reputation in recent years by a record of consistent wins over Southern rivals.

Although a college of only 700 students, The Citadel is known as the West Point of the South, being considered one of the best military schools in the country. In all probability the entire student body will make the trip to Washington for the Colonial game. A snappy sixty-piece band and maneuvers by a crack drill team are expected to add color to the event.

Judge Hill Will Lecture On Christian Science Topic

Judge Frederick C. Hill of Los Angeles will give a lecture on Christian Science on Tuesday February 6 in Corcoran Hall, under the auspices of the Christion Science Organization of the University.

Judge Hill is a member of the board of lectureship of The Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. The lecture, which is free, begins 8:10 p. m.

Articles by Fisher, King Featured in New Law Review

Current Legal Questions Outlined in Latest Edition

The second issue of the 1933-34 volume of the George Washington Law Review which appeared this week, contains three leading articles of timely interest on Federal Public Laws.

The first of these being "The Gold Clause—can it constitutionally be abrogated by legislation," written by George A. King, distinguished alumni of the University and prominent member of the District of Columbia bar, deals with recent resolutions passed by Congress which nullify money clauses contained in contracts providing for payment in gold coin, and raises the question as to whether Congress has power to provide that these contracts may be paid in legal currency.

Regulation of motor carriers are ably outlined in this issue by William A. Fisher, noted statistician with the fabricated metal products federation. Mr. Fisher's study of this subject was begun while he was a research assistant at the Brookings Institute in connection with the work of the national transportation commission composed of Calvin Coolidge, Alfred Smith, Alexander Legge, Bernard Barush, Clark Howell and other famous men. This valuable experience qualifies Mr. Fisher, probably better than anyone else, to write authoritatively on state legislation which has attempted to deal with problems of motor bus regulations.

Molyneaux, Maxon and Gay to Occupy Leading Roles in New Cue and Curtain Production "Tree Cornered Moon"

Danzansky, Pick, Stevens, Saugstad, Beach and Gusack Also Chosen; "Cast Tentative Pending Rehearsal Results," States Brown

Ruth Molyneaux, Mary Maxon and Karl Gay will fill the leading roles in the tentative cast of "Three-Cornered Moon," Cue and Curtain's second play of the season it was announced by Miss Constance Connor Brown, director. Other parts are played by Walter Pick, Joe Danzansky, Leonard Stevens, Edgar Saugstad, Ann Beach, and Adele Gusack.

"This casting is very tentative," Miss Brown said, "and as the rehearsals progress, we are likely to make changes."

Ruth Molyneaux plays the part of Mrs. Rimplegar, that delightful speciman of squirrel food, recently played by Mary Boland on the screen, and by Cecilia Loftus on the stage. Miss Molyneaux is well known in campus and other Washington amateur dramatic circles. In addition to her work with Cue and Curtain and Troubadours, she was one of the stars with the St.

Women Debaters Arrange Schedule

Pittsburgh, William and Mary, Trinity Scheduled to Meet G. W. Team

The University of Pittsburgh, William and Mary, and Trinity have been definitely scheduled to meet the women's debate team of George Washington University, and arrangements have been tentatively made with teams from Swarthmore and Hood.

The first debate will be held here with William and Mary on Monday, March 5. The G. W. women will uphold the negative side of the question, "Resolved: That the essential features of the NRA should be adopted as a permanent policy of the United States Government."

On Wednesday, March 7, a debate will be held at Trinity College, the G. W. team again taking the negative side of the same question. There will be two speakers on each side, giving direct speeches ten and twelve minutes in length, respectively, and rebuttals of five and ten minute length.

The University of Pittsburgh will debate here on Thursday, March 22. The G. W. team will debate the negative again, but there will be three speakers on each team, each speech being ten minutes in length with five-minute rebuttals.

If the arrangements can be satisfactorily concluded, the debates with Hood and Swarthmore will take place early in March. The teams have not yet been selected.

Cherry Tree Picture Proofs

Holders of Cherry Tree picture proofs up to and including number 400, who do not return them to the Casson Studio on or before Saturday, February 5, will automatically forfeit the right to make a personal selection, according to Ralph Given, Cherry Tree Photographic Editor. After that date the photographer will proceed to make the finished pictures for the Cherry Tree on the basis of his own selections.

Keisel Is Missing For Terror Fray

Sholl's Flash May Not Enter University; O'Leary Gives Lineup

Contrary to previous expectations, Hal Keisal, the Sholl's quint flash, will not play in tomorrow night's game with Western Maryland, Coach Ted O'Leary announced late last night.

The change in plans was made, it was indicated, because there is some doubt about Keisal's re-entering the University this semester. Moreover, he has not practiced with the team sufficiently to fit in with the play of the regulars.

At the same time O'Leary issued the starting line-up for the Terror fray, consisting of Noonan at center, Howells at forward, Smith or Kane at the other forward position, and Bill Parish and Shirley at guard. Parrish fills the shoes of Sammy Stein, who was forced out of the game some time ago by injuries.

New Appointments To Business Staff

Gates Announces Training Class for Instruction in Advertising

Announcement of new appointments to the business staff was made Sunday evening by Lester Gates, business manager of The Hatchet. Chiefs of staff appointed were: Muriel Chamberlain, in charge of the art staff; Ross Strout, manager of the copy and stenographic staffs, and Richard Murphy, in charge of office and exchanges. Jack Hazard was temporarily appointed head of the sales staff.

Others appointed were: Robert Miller, Mary Miller, Beulah Kosters, Katherine Sibert, and Robert Boudinot to the art staff; Helen Brown, Bertha Lockheart, Alba Geraci, Roland Spencer, Kenneth Madison, Frances Crawford, and Elizabeth Hartung to the copy and stenographic staffs; Alexander Sadtler to the office and exchange staff; and Charles Armstrong to the sales staff.

At the same time Gates announced that a training class was being formed for the business staff at which instruction in copy, art, contacts, and selling work will be given. Those wishing to join this class may apply at The Hatchet Business Office from 9 to 5 on week days or at the regular staff meetings on Wednesday evenings at 8 p. m.

Art Students' Photos Selected for Display

Joseph A. Marsten and Shaw Hall Matthews, students in the Division of Fine Arts, have each had three of their photographs selected for exhibition in the Arts and Industries Building of the Smithsonian Institution for the month of February.

The prize winning photographs were among 52 selected from over 150 submitted by 60 members in competition in the Washington Photographic Society. Artistic merit and photographic quality were bases on which the selected photographs were chosen; local photographic specialists and salon judges made the awards.

"Titanic," "Eternity," and "Sunset Over the Potomac" are titles of the photographs by Marsten. Matthews' pictures are titled "Marble Stairways," "Woodland" and "Tall Arches."

Shaw Matthews is staff photographer of The Hatchet.

Council Will Select Officers of Senior Class Next Monday

Senior Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer Will Be Voted On

Under the guidance of President Joseph Danzansky, the Senior Class Council will meet Monday evening at 7:30 in Lambie House to elect the three remaining officers of the class and members of the class night committee.

The election was postponed from last week because of the examination period. According to the Elections Act passed by the Student Council on December 14 the president of the senior class must call a meeting of the Senior Council within one week after the class election.

This rule was set aside by John Madigan, chairman of the Council constitution and by-laws committee, because the Act provides that the elections are to be held the Wednesday and Thursday following the first Friday in November. The committee was required to act in the stead of the Council which has not meet since before the general elections.

The senior class night chairman was also selected at last year's meeting of the Senior Council but what plans will be made this year could not be learned.

The office of treasurer of the sophomore class, left vacant in the recent general election, will be filled at an assembly of the sophomore class. The Student Council at its last meeting struck out the clause of the Elections Act providing that "In the event of a vacancy in any class office, such vacancy shall be filled through a special election conducted according to these rules, at a date selected by the Student Council." With this clause eliminated the matter of filling vacancies rests with the classes.

Edward Wilson, president of the sophomore class, had no plans, when interviewed by a Hatchet reporter Sunday.

'Our Silly Spelling' Is Forum Subject

Croissant Will Deliver Next Radio Address Over Station WMAL

"Our Silly Spelling" will be the subject of the radio address to be delivered by Professor DeWitt Clinton Croissant, executive officer of the English Department, on the George Washington University Radio Forum Thursday evening. The address will be delivered over radio station WMAL and is scheduled for 8:30 p. m.

Professor Croissant is a member of the Simplified Spelling Board, and was for many years the general field agent fo the board. In his address he will trace at some length the history of our modern spelling and will show how our present rather cumbersome and unreasonable system of spelling is due to a large extent to foreign influences. He will show how much more sensible and economical our language could become if it were simplified and will illustrate with examples.

An address by Professor Norris I. Crandall, professor of architecture and director of the division of fine arts, featured the Forum last week. Speaking on "The Home Idea," he stated that scientific principles should be substituted for the antiquated construction methods of home building still in use today. He pointed out that if automobiles were built according to the method still applied to home construction the average $500 car would cost the buyer $10,000.

Professor Crandall said in part, "Up-to-date methods of home building would result in the erection of homes which would be not only moderate in price, but adapted to the needs of the individual personality and to the conditions of modern living."

February 3 Is Date Of Entrance Exams

George Washington University entrance examinations for the second semester will be given next Saturday, February 3, from 9 a. m. to 12 noon, and from 1 to 2:30 p. m.

The examinations, for candidates for admission who present certificates of graduation from accredited schools but who have not attained the required rank in class, will include a psychological college-ability examination and an examination covering the principal high school or preparatory school subjects (English, history, science, and mathematics).

Examinations in the Junior College, Columbian College, and the School of Government for students who wish to qualify for advanced courses, will be given Friday, February 2, and Saturday, February 3.

200 Degrees to Be Awarded At February Convocation

More than 200 students will receive degrees at the Winter Convocation in Constitution Hall February 22 according to an unofficial estimate made by the University yesterday.

Plans for the 113th Winter Convocation cermonies are not yet definite.

Brainstorm Causes Night Watchman To Be Haled As Campus Celebrity

Band Offers Easy Jobs—No Pay, Little Work

By DICK CREYKE

Who wants a job with practically no work attached? Of course there's no pay, but there's all sorts of honor, glory and fun.

The idea is to join the band. Then you get to wear a snappy blue uniform, and you get a reserved seat in the cheering section at football games.

If you're enthused, hustle around to the band office in the basement of Building Q any time after 11 a. m. There Maestro Louis Malkus will tell you that you have only to attend a music rehearsal on each Monday night, and that you never have to practice letter formations. No, sir! They are worked out on paper in advance by Captain Floyd Sparks, letter-formation deviser extraordinary.

And after you have affiliated, you will find yourself in a geographic melting pot of no dimunitive size. All of the five band officers hail from different states, and the members of the band account for almost as many additional states as they are in number. And there's an idea for you. Find out what states they're missing, tell them you're from one of those states, and you're job's cinched. Of course, if you can't play an instrument—but that's your worry.

Rudy Ficken Wins Hatchet Contest for Column Title

And Rudy Ficken wins five sheckles! His title, "By George!" was selected by The Hatchet business staff from more than 40 entries as the winner of that crisp, new five dollar bill offered for a title for the second page ad feature. Honorable mentions were awarded to Virginia Hawkins, who suggested "Hatchetizers," and James J. Carr, who submitted "Read 'Em and Reap."

Rudolph W. Ficken, in case you didn't know, is the official university night watchman, and an athlete of repute. Caught as he made his rounds Sunday night, and informed that he had won the prize, Rudy made the following statements for the press:

"I am very glad to have won, but I will feel a lot better when I get the money."

"I'm going to take the money and go out and celebrate."

"I was sitting there trying to think of a title for the column, when suddenly I said to myself, 'By George!' It seemed to me that this was better than any of the titles I had thought of, so I submitted it. 'George' has always been a favorite with me. When I don't know someone's name, I just call him 'George.' My roommate and I call each other 'George'."

Rudy then went on about his rounds, wondering about his "crisp, new five dollar bill."

Other entries of merit, according to the business staff, were submitted by Dora Marks, Larry Parker, A. Leonard Smith, R. W. Murtberg, George Pollard, W. E. Van Deman, H. Barnhart, and Raymond Miller.

And so the contest is over, and the column is named "By George!"

Campus Celebrity Hurt in Accident

Amanda Chittum Injured With Four Others in Overturned Auto

Amanda Chittum, newly elected vice president of the junior class, is in Emergency Hospital suffering from a fractured collar bone, cracked cheek bone, and minor injuries received in an automobile accident on the Arlington Memorial Bridge at six o'clock last Friday night. John Porter, also a student here, was driving the car but escaped uninjured.

Though Miss Chittum was too ill to receive visitors last week, she is expected to recover sufficiently to resume studies within two weeks. Her mother, in an interview at her Park Central Hotel apartment, declared the couple had gone for a short "before dinner" drive. Mrs. Chittum said Porter was driving about 30 miles an hour when the car was overturned at the south end of the Arlington bridge.

Apparently the accident itself is somewhat of a mystery. Porter could not be reached at press time.

Amanda has been active as a member of Cue and Curtain. Last year she gained the aporoval of drama critics with her portrayal of the heroine of "Cock Robin." Numbered among her other activities are Student Council; President of Sigma Delta Phi; and March of Events Editor of the Cherry Tree. Her sorority is Kappa Kappa Gamma.

87 Per Cent of Student Body Employed, Statistics Reveal in Searching Query

Seminar Report Shows Women Make More Money Than Men; Ninety Per Cent of the Student Body Are Regular Hatchet Readers

Thirty-eight per cent of the men and 21 per cent of the women studying at George Washington University are employed full time, while an additional 16 per cent of the men and 12 per cent of the women are employed part time, according to a survey of student living conditions made by J. Harold Stehman, a student at the University and an economist in the Department of Commerce. The survey, which covered the living conditions of fully 15 per cent of the students at the University, was conducted last February by Stehman in fulfillment of the requirements of a seminar in economics.

The men working full time receive an average monthly salary of $109.99; the average women's salary is $115.38. Of students employed on a part-time basis, men earn on the average $31.77 monthly, while women earn $42.68. The fact that the women workers earn more than the men is perhaps surprising and unflattering to the vanity of the campus males. The explanation is that most of the women hold stenographic positions, which pay more than the minor jobs the men are willing to accept while working their way through college.

The report further reveals that these students constitute a buying market of approximately two and one-half million dollars, of which men contribute 58 per cent and women 42 per cent.

In an analysis of living expenses of the students, it was revealed that only about 38 per cent of the men live at home while 75 per cent of the women are local residents. The balance of the male students have an average monthly expense for room and board of $47.63 while the women's living expenses are slightly less, being $45.77 a month.

Of the men students, 46 per cent have fraternal connections with 44 per cent of these living in fraternity houses. Approximately 50 per cent of the women are sorority members.

Another interesting phase of the survey is the marital status of the students. Ten per cent of the men are married, and 4 per cent of the women have taken the fatal step.

Another feature of the report is a tabulation of newspaper preference, in which The Hatchet is rated first with 90 per cent of the students reading the publication weekly. Next in line is the Star, which is read, however, by only 75 per cent of the students, according to the report.

Credit Due

A remarkable victory over the strong team of the University of Virginia, won last week by the Colonial swimming team, has brought this heretofore comparatively unnoticed group into some of the prominence they deserve.

Losses suffered last year by small margins have been turned into victories this year by Coach Al Lyman's small squad and they promise to be the outstanding athletic team of the University for 1933-34.

Saturday night at the Ambassador Pool the Colonials will swim against the strong Lehigh University team in the second meet of the season. In other home meets, all to be at the Ambassador, V. M. I., Duke and Lafayette will be met.

Max Rote, who a short time ago held every record from 50 yards to 150 yards and two years ago was conceded a position on the American Olympic team until he became ill with influenza, is one of the reasons for the remarkable showing this ill-treated little band of athletes has been making.

Considering the fact that the University athletic department does not assist the team in arranging a schedule and last year doled out a very meagre allowance for the team's expenses we believe the swimmers deserve a great deal of credit for their perserverence in long practice sessions when their meets were ignored. We believe that the recognition they are now receiving is certainly deserved.

"Pipe" Courses

(Purdue Daily Exponent)

With students again preparing for the opening of another academic semester, one hears much about "pipe" courses in which so many hours of credit may be received with a minimum quantity of work. It is not likely that many of the University students fall in this category, but it is easy to find students who are always searching the catalogue for an easy course.

Some students say that they must take a few easy courses which don't require too much effort, as they are busy with outside activities or are working their way through school. Such students are making some real sacrifices, for they are not only giving up their spare hours, but are locking themselves out of some courses which might be infinitely more valuable than the so-called "pipe" courses. Courses selected on the merits of their simplicity may hardly prove valuable. They are probably justified in the majors for which they were originally intended, but when a student deliberately goes out of his field merely to obtain some easy credits, he is pulling a typical juvenile trick and is only fooling himself.

With money relatively scarce and becoming increasingly difficult to obtain, students should by this time be duly impressed with the importance of getting "value received" for the money they are investing in their college education. Money is not plentiful and college educations are costly. If those students, who are taking "pipe" courses, insist on paying for something they do not need, they might try investing their money in the stock market or something else of that nature. Being the owner of a lot of uncertain stock should prove more interesting than attending easy, but boring, classes.

Making Them Pay

Membership in the honorary fraternity, once the crowning glory of a college career well spent and the ambition of the finest students, is now being viewed with skepticism by many and completely rejected by a few Universities.

The most recent and radical step in this direction is the banning of honorary and professional groups from the campus of Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., following an investigation by a member of the faculty which revealed that all of the organizations at Union with the exception of Spiked Shoe, a track star group, charged an initiation fee, more than half of which went to the national organization. Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity, was the only one of the banned groups which is represented at George Washington.

The Men's Senate of Syracuse University has been carrying on the same type of investigation which has revealed that the 38 national groups operating on the campus sent a total of $5,000 from the campus to "national headquarters" for which they received "little more than jewelry." This amount was found to be 48 per cent of the total capital of the groups.

At Purdue University in Indiana the Daily Exponent launched an attack on "the honoraries" challenging them "to produce more tangible assets" than they now display, if admission prices are to be maintained for the upkeep of national offices whose excuse for existence is questionable."

"The complaint of any single chapter would be insufficient to change the policies of a national group to the point of abandonment of present high fees. It is not improbable, however, that a unified action directed at a national office by a majority of chapters would result in substantial lowering of assessments now exacted from all initiates. Chapter officers would be wise to cooperate with officers in other chapters to force a great reduction in present costs of membership."

We believe that chapter officers of George Washington honorary and professional fraternities ought to take a part in this cooperation.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

AT AN exam at Roanoke college a none-too-bright student wrote as the principle parts of a Latin verb, "Slippe, slippere, falli, bumptus." The returned paper had these words, "Fallo, fallere, fluncto, suspendum."

Then there was the skeptical senior at Wisconsin who pinned a five dollar bill to his blue book, and wrote, "Let your conscience be your guide." They say he passed.

The dean of Western Reserve was handing out diplomas to a long line of M.D.'s when a woman in the audience fainted. In a loud voice the dean asked, "Is there a doctor in the house?"

A plebe at West Point sent the following letter home: "Dear Aunt Jane: Thanks for the cake. The piece I got was fine."

Purely in a detached scientific fashion it was pointed out by a Lehigh instructor that the girls at Barnard college had emotionally, considerable in common with little nursery children of from two to six. So it's "Feed the Brutes" from another angle. The worm will turn.

The sacret brotherhood of "Flunk Dammit Flunk" has been organized at Alabama for the "lessees intellectuals."

Censoring Unnecessary For University Papers

(The McGill Daily)

Madison, Wis. — College newspapers should no more be under the censorship of university officials than other publications should be under the government censorship, Dr. Matthew Lyle Spencer, former president of the University of Washington, said last week.

"If students of a university who are selected to manage the college paper are so incapable that they require censorship, then there is something definitely wrong with the kind of training which that university has given them," stated the former president.

Insists on Free Press

The speaker said that he has found it possible for a college newspaper to have just as much influence in its field of activity as the best outside newspapers have in theirs.

JUST BETWEEN US--

By LUDWIG CAMINITA, JR.

THIS mid-semester Sunday is something like a very unusually dull Monday morning on a daily. Monday morning is always dull for dailies. And when it is unusually dull, you can imagine with what degree of labor the editors look for features, small news tid-bits, and that necessary lead story. But I am not going to hunt my every source of information for a story today. I have been waiting for just such a dull week as this to give expression to a few ideas I have had for some time.

This might be called "Things I Would Like to See About Campus." Some of them are trivial in themselves, I admit, but often it is the trivial thing continually repeated that finally results in a feeling of suppressed resentment for things in general.

1. For one thing, I would like to see hot and cold water in every rest room on campus. It is exceedingly annoying to try to cleanse one's hands in a pool of "icicly" cold water, with no soap (or a poor sample of that item). This is especially true of the Library basement men's room.

2. Rather than have those little iron hoops stuck into the G Street grass plots, I advocate the planting of small hedges. This will remove unsightly, eventually bent, hoops for another example of Mrs. Smith's landscape work which is always a pretty sight on campus. The hoops don't keep the collegians off the grass, they are always bent, and I've always liked small hedges anyway. Especially those that curve and dip up and down.

3. I still insist that the Library should place the so-called "highbrow" magazine's on the stacks. If the students really do steal them, it means that they are willing to jeopardize their career for a single magazine. I say this in view of the fact that the Librarian has very nicely placed the magazine rack next to the assistant's desk. Incidentally, I think this is a very nice arrangement. It makes for more convenience and places the nearest student seat sufficiently far from the desk to make for undisturbed study. That was one of my original "things I would like to see," always having been annoyed by conversation when seated so close to the desk with no other places available. Happily the librarians beat me to it.

4. More fervently than ever do I advocate the abolishment of the Senior Council. This body has no actual functions to perform. Interest in that body was such that only five candidates from as many colleges, had entered at the deadline. Later four different schools, I believe, were admitted to the ranks since they were all unopposed anyway. Lack of duties and no interest should be sufficient for abolishment. The prosecution rests.

5. The Symphony Orchestra is an organization for whom I would plead: "Let us give it 100 per cent support." If 10 per cent of the campus did encourage these musicians I would feel more than satisfied. Incidentally, here is the question from the self-appointed committee of one to the Symphony Club:

"Why don't you sponsor a concert by the Symphony Orchestra?" I feel practically certain Louis Malkus would be happy to accommodate; positive that he will do his best if nothing hinders the project.

6. Some form of Class dues, as outlined briefly by Joe Danzansky a few weeks ago, will go a long way toward the much sought-after "class spirit." Like Editor John Madigan, I believe that "class spirit is desirable at this institution;" like Danzansky, I believe class dues are the only solution to the problem. Going still further, for the benefit of those who don't think class spirit necessary, I, too, firmly believe that properly developed class spirit leads to Alumni spirit; the latter is essential to the success of any University—especially a privately endowed institution.

7. Finally, I believe that somehow, sometime, somewhere, there should be some sort of public appreciation for the faculty members' secretaries. They are always ready to give what help you might need. They all are smiling and extremely polite (only met one who wasn't), and they seem to have the happy faculty of efficiently, yet soothingly, imparting disheartening news with an "I'm sorry" air that smothers any rancor one might develop in a moment of resentment. As a matter of fact, think I'll write a feature story about these faculty secretaries sometime. I know a lot of them who are "swell fellows."

PRESIDENT CLOYD HECK MARVIN'S first overt act on coming to the University on a sultry day in August, 1927, was to take in hand redecoration of the president's office. And he actually did it himself—tearing out partitions, putting in moldings and chair rail, mixing paint with a precise eye to color, going over walls with a stippling brush. (Perhaps this should be qualified by the admission that one or two members of the janitor force were on call, but a good share of the actual labor was his.) It is this taste that keeps the president's offices so attractive.

PRINCETON, Pennsylvania, Johns Hopkins and Virginia accept invitation of George Washington University to participate in the second annual indoor athletic meet to be held in Convention Hall, February 13, 1908. VALENTINES! A beautiful one for her, funny ones for the "guys" you don't like, friendly ones for those you do. Priced from 5 cents to 5 dollars. Mostly 10, 15, and 25 cents at Rothrocks, 1745 Penn. She'll be happy; those "guys" will be mad; and you'll be well pleased.

LAST summer's crowd that was regularly seen at Ramon's Beer Garden, gathers at the same address but in a new locale—the Sky Room above the Cafe. You may expect the same expert and quiet waiters, the same menu and moderate prices, and the same late hours (3 a. m.—Saturdays, 4 a. m.), in a modern setting! You enter thru the cafe (1341 Conn. THIS is for new students who plan to get acquainted with the G. W. crowd that "does things" and goes places. After the rush affairs and dances this week you'll find most of the crowd that wants something good to eat before they go to bed "Deauvilling." For several reasons the Deauville Food Shoppe is the most popular gathering place for G. W.'s late-evening lunchers. FOR THOSE explorers who like to go into new and different places we want to suggest Katherine Wood's Wood Shed at 1812 H. For here you will find more of a cozy club than a restaurant. Phi Sigs Win At Ping Pong

The Phi Sig house was the scene of virile sportsmanship and hectic activity last Friday night when the brawny-greek-letter athletes met the Georgetown Boys' Club in a lively ping pong match. And the local boys won! Yes, sir! They won 3-2.

In a series of what a spectator describes as "very hot matches," Parker, Gwin and Jackson won their tilts to secure the victory for the I Street lads. Hadley, the Phi Sig champ, proved very disappointing, in that he lost his match. Lane likewise was unsuccessful in his endeavor.

Union College Bars Pi Delts

A movement to ban honorary and professional fraternities from the campuses of Union College, Schenectady, New York and at Syracuse University, New York, was crystalized into definite action about three weeks ago when Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalistic fraternity, was barred from further activities on the campus of Union College. This action was taken after a lengthy investigation conducted in both schools due to the fact that such organizations sent half of their initiation fees to their national headquarters.

Dean Henry Grattan Doyle, national president of Pi Delta Epsilon, could not be located on Sunday evening to issue any statement on the banning of this organization.

Hitler Question Is Debaters' Subject

Men's Team Will Engage Washington and Lee on March 8

A debate with Washington and Lee has been definitely scheduled for Thursday, March 8, with the George Washington men's debate team arguing the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That Hitlerism is to the best interests of the German people." Sometime in May, when the Colonials are making their return trip, they will take the affirmative side of the same question at Lexington.

Three debates have been tentatively scheduled, with the Wranglers' Club of William and Mary, with Princeton, and with the University of Alabama. The subject of the William and Mary debate, "Resolved, That American citizens should join in a boycott of German goods," is a variant with the Hitler question. As the result of a home-and-home arrangement, next year the debate with William and Mary will be held in Washington.

Both the Princeton and University of Alabama debates will be held here. The George Washington men will argue with the former on the same question as the William and Mary debate, and with the Alabama duo on the Hitler question.

Selection of the teams will not be announced until shortly before the first debate.

CUE AND CURTAIN ANNOUNCES CAST FOR COMING PLAY

Patrick Players, the Western High School Dramatic Association, and the Jabberwock Players. She played the lead in two motion pictures produced by the latter group.

Maxon Proves "Find"

Mary Maxon proved to be a "find" at the recent tryouts, and will make her debut in campus dramatics in "Three-Cornered Moon." She will play the part of Elizabeth Rimplegar, the role filled in professional production by Claudette Colbert and Ruth Gordon.

The only person in the play who might be accused of any degree of sanity is Dr. Alan Stevens. This role, played by Richard Arlen in the film, will be filled by Karl Gay, who appears in his third Cue and Curtain play. Gay is also assistant production manager and assistant stage manager of the organization.

Walter Pick appears in his first Cue and Curtain play as Donald, a novelist. Pick has been active in the Drama Appreciation Club and in dramatics at Western High School. Edgar Saugstad, another newcomer to the organization, will play the part of Ed, the youngest of the Rimplegars. Saugstad follows Tom Brown of the movie version, and Elisha Cook, Jr., who, following his work in "Three-Cornered Moon," is making a tremendous hit in "Ah! Wilderness."

Danzansky, Stevens Return

Joe Danzansky and Leonard Stevens, both veterans of campus dramatics, return to portray the other Rimplegar brothers, Kenneth and Douglas.

Ann Besch, another newcomer, plays the part of Kitty, a Brooklyn beauty, portrayed on the screen by Joan Marsh. Adele Gusask, star of former Cue and Curtain plays, fills the role of Jenny, the Czechoslovakian maid.

"Three-Cornered Moon," Gertrude Tonkonogy's smash comedy hit of last season, concerns the antics of the Rimplegars, a Brooklyn family which has its own private fog moving around with it.

Season tickets, good for three admissions which may be divided between the remaining two plays as the purchaser desires, may be obtained in the Cue and Curtain office, Building Q, on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, between noon and 3 p. m. The student price is $1.50. The price for single student admissions is 75 cents. Tickets for those not connected with the university are $1 and a special price of $3.50 for two tickets to each of the remaining two plays is offered.

Revised Tank Card Lists Lehigh Next; Swarthmore Added

Rote and Ghormley Star as Virginia Is Defeated by Close Score

Victorious in their first match against Virginia, the Buff and Blue swimmers get into action again Saturday night meeting Lehigh at the Ambassador Hotel pool, starting at 7:30 p. m. Changes in the schedule announced by Coach Lyman last week included the addition of Lehigh and Swarthmore, the latter to be met here February 10. These teams make the present list the most auspicious ever attempted by a G. W. tank outfit but Lyman was highly pleased with the showing of his men against the Cavaliers and expects Saturday's meet to be a fast one.

Faced with the necesity of taking both first and second places in the last event to win the meet, Captain Max Rote and Fred Helwig finished in 1-2 order in the 100 yard dash to enable the Colonial swimmers to nose out the Virginia nators 34-32 in the Ambassador pool last Friday night.

Cavaliers Lead

The score stood 31-27 as the gun sounded for last race making the garnering of the first two places necessary for a G. W. victory. The Buff and Blue tankmen came through in a whirlwind finish to take a close won victory that partly made up for previous meets lost by the same heart-breaking score.

Captain Max won the 50 yard dash along with the century to be the star and chief point getter of the evening. Dyer Ghormley also showed his customary form, winning the 200 yard breast-stroke with ease and taking second place in the fancy diving. A feature of the meet was the fact that a squad of only five men won for George Washington; Carl Vartia, winning the 440, and Johnnny Hain, placing in the 150 yard back stroke, were the other members of Coach Al Lyman's team.

Results:

220-Yard Relay—Won by Virginia (Cabell, Montague, Call, Gravely); time, 1:37.5.

Fancy Diving—Won by Gravely (Va.); second, Ghormley (G. W.); third, Davidson (Va.); points, 85.1, 80.8, 79.

150-Yard Backstroke—Won by Prince (Va.); second, Hain (G. W.); third, Davidson (Va.); time, :23.8.

440-Yard Swim—Won by Vartia (G. W.); second, Robbins (Va.); third, Schwartz (Va.); time, 6:04.

220-Yard Breast Stroke—Won by Ghormley (G. W.); second, Cohan (Va.); third, Garnett (Va.); time 2:41.6.

100-Yard Dash—Won by Max Rote (G. W.); second, Fred Helwig (G. W.); third, Englehard (Va.); time, :56.

Pharmacists Engage Blue Ridge College

Manager Phillip Rubin of the Pharmacy School basketball team has scheduled two games with the Blue Ridge College team of New Windsor, Md. The first game will be played at Blue Ridge, February 6, while a return game will be played here February 23. These are the first contests carded by Rubin for his charges, although he is negotiating with the University of Maryland Pharmacists for an engagement.

John Lee, assistant football coach, has taken the druggists under his wing and has been tutoring a squad of about a dozen for the past month. Lee will select the starting lineup for next week's game from the following men: Rubin, Chamberlain, Nathanson, Hoffberg, Wolf, Allison, Miller, Geiger, Read, Latona and Steinberg.

Rubin is anxious to play any other class or division team in the University and again issues a challenge to "any team in school which can give us a fight."

Logan Devises New Achievement Exam. For Gym Courses

Test To Be Given Three Times With Medals Awarded To Highest

Coach Roland Logan has devised a new physical ability test for all required physical education classes to be given this semester. The test includes the events formerly used by Logan at Kansas, by Sexton at G. W. for the past three years and several innovations made up by Bill Meyers and used here for the first time.

Scored like the A. A. A. Decathlon contest, Logan's test will be based on a thousand point score with perfect performance in each event netting 100 points. The events are: chinning, standing broad jump, leg lift, rope climb, bar vault, dash, potato race, medicine ball throw, baseball throw, and an equilibrium test.

Commenting on the test Logan said: "The value of this test lies in its compelled use of every muscle of the body. In this way we can determine each student's defects in muscular development and attempt to correct or build them up. We are able to note improvement from time to time and grades will be made on this improvement, as well as attendance and attitude in class."

The test will be given three times during the semester and medals will be awarded the three students making the highest scores on the final test in May.

Quintet Overcomes Virginia Tech, 40-19

J. Howell Scores 13 Points in Leading Colonial Scoring Attack

In their only engagement of the last two weeks, the Colonial quintet experienced little difficulty in overcoming the Virginia Tech Gobblers 40 to 19 in the Colonial gym January 19.

Both teams found difficulty in locating the basket in the opening part of the game, and after seven minutes of rather ineffective passing and formation attacks, the score stood at two all.

Finally the Colonial offense, headed by Jimmy Howell, got under way. Aided principally by Noonan, the flashy forward led his cohorts into a 22 to 11 lead at the half.

In the second half the Colonials picked up 18 more points and paying particular attention to defensive tactics, held the visitors to three floor goals and a pair of one-pointers.

Riflemen Inaugurate Season This Week With Individual Meet

Opponent in First League Match Next Week Unannounced as Yet

The National Intercollegiate Individual match this week, the first Middle Atlantic Lague telegraphic shoot next week, and the shoulder-to-shoulder encounter with V. M. I. the following week will officially open the Colonial's shooting season.

Coach Parson's letter men of last year, Captain Frank Marano, Manager James Cross, Jr., Richard Free, Oscar Neal, and Walter Schmidt, expect to compete in the National Intercollegiate Individual contest which will be shot under strict National Rifle Association rules. The rules allow two "strings" of ten shots each, with one minute a shot, on prone, kneeling and standing positions.

An opponent, at present unannounced, from the Middle Atlantic League, will be selected by the National Rifle Association to meet the Colonials next week in their first telegraphic match. The league consists of George Washington, Georgetown, Johns Hopkins, Maryland, Navy, V. M. I., V. P. I., and Western Maryland. George Washington placed third in the league championship match held in Annapolis last year.

February 17 marks the opening date for the Buff and Blue's shoulder-to-shoulder skirmish at V. M. I., where they will be a guest of the Cadets. Coach Parsons in discussing the prospective trip, stated, "V. M. I. was our guest last year, and now this year they've asked us down to see them. In fact, our relationship has been so cordial that we hope the visits will continue and finally develop into an annual affair."

Parsons stated further, "We trimmed 'em last year, and our team is stronger this year. So we should make a good showing down there."

Final scores on the National Intercollegiate Individual prone match held several weeks ago have not been announced.

Daisies Play Pansies In "Flower" League

Teams Meet Tomorrow As Play Is Resumed; Brain Trust Dangerous

STANDING OF TEAMS

	W.	L.	Pct.
Daisies	2	0	.1000
Brain Tr.	2	0	.1000
Pansies	1	0	.1000
Rosebuds	0	2	.000
Lilies	0	2	.000

Coach Roland Logan's "flower" league, organized to keep stoutish football men who promise to become fat, in shape, resumes action tomorrow afternoon after a short lay-off for exams. The Daisies, tied for the lead with the Brain Trust, meet the Pansies in a game postponed from January 19, which may go a long way towards deciding the winner of the trophy. Johnny Baker, Daisy captain, will select his starting line-up from Harrison, Privot, Conn., Davenport, Hickman, Lee and Volkmann.

The Brain Trust, sharing the league lead due to Ted O'Leary's accurate shooting, may be ousted from this position shortly, if the opposition can manage to cripple eagle-eyed Ted for a few games. Logan plans to make up for lost time in the next ten days, with the finals coming probably Saturday, February 10.

Quintet Returns to Action Tomorrow In Terror Contest

Keisal, Former Sholl's Star, Makes Debut With Colonials Tomorrow

Coach Ted O'Leary's varsity five gets back into action tomorrow night after a lay-off for examinations, engaging Western Maryland. Hal Keisal, star of the Sholl's Cafe quint, has reentered school and will make his debut against the Marylanders. After a bright season with the Sholl's team, which recently won its 70th consecutive victory, Keisal is expected to prove a valuable addition to O'Leary's squad. He will be used at center or forward.

The Colonial five found its winning ways again against Virginia Poly, soundly trouncing the Gobblers here, and O'Leary expects his boys to turn in another triumph tomorrow. Western Maryland was not particularly impressive against Catholic U. and Maryland this year, being weaker than Terror teams of the past three seasons.

Likely to be stiffer competition, though, is the Davis-Elkins five which invades the H street gym next week, meeting G. W. Monday night. The Senators, always strong in every sport, have enjoyed unusual success on the court recently and can be counted on to put up a tough game.

Frosh Play Tech, Episcopal, Devitt

Coach Logan's Yearling Quintet Favored to Win All Three Games

After a period of relative inactivity the freshman basketball team will meet three opponents this week. Vigorous practices have been resumed following a brief lay-off on account of examinations, and Coach Logan expects to put his team back on the floor in its winning form.

Tomorrow the frosh journey out to the Tech gym to engage the Techmen in the second encounter of the two teams this season. The yearlings registered a 31 to 18 victory before and figure to repeat, although the Marion and Gray could easily upset the dope as they did in defeating Eastern earlier in the season.

Thursday the freshmen resume activities in Alexandria, where Episcopal will be met. On Saturday the strong Devitt team will be met in the H street gym. This will be the first meeting of the yearlings with these teams.

Vanderbilt Gridders Called For Early Spring Practice

Nashville, Tenn.—Jan. 29.—Exceptionally warm weather has caused Coach Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt to call his spring football drills earlier than usual and for the past ten days the veteran mentor has had a squad going through preliminary workouts. Reserves and newcomers are being given particular attention by McGugin and his associates, Josh Billings and Russ Cohen. Their chief task is to build up reserve strength to bolster the soph eleven of last fall which won five games, lost three and tied two in its first season under fire.

Interfrat Council Engages Morris' Band for Prom

March 16, Willard Ballroom, Definitely Selected as Date and Place

"Duke" Morris and his band will play for the Interfraternity Prom, according to word from Frank Bastable, social chairman of the Interfraternity Council, yesterday following his return from Lewistown, Pa., where final arrangements were made Sunday.

"I am sure that Morris' Band will be one of the best ever to play for an Interfraternity Prom," Bastable stated. He made the negotiations for the band to come here March 16 after listening and dancing to its music at the Kishacoquillas Amusement Park, a popular road house near Lewistown.

The orchestra has won a reputation at college proms in Pennsylvania, Morris himself being a college man. He graduated from Penn State in 1931 and is a Phi Gamma Delta.

The main ball room of the Willard Hotel has been definitely settled upon as the scene of the prom and the date of March 16 is also definite now, Bastable said.

Tickets are being sold on the quota plan again this year by which they will be available at $3 for fraternities purchasing 25 or more. The regular price will be $4, a reduction of $1 from last year.

Dr. Johnstone Leaves For China Thursday

Will Study Three Municipal Governments of Shanghai; Problems Involved

William Crane Johnstone, jr., Ph. D., assistant professor of political science, will leave Washington on Thursday for a period of study in China while he is on sabbattcal leave.

In China Dr. Johnstone will study the government of the French Concessions in Shanghai and the International Settlement and the relation of these governments to that of the Chinese City, as well as the International problems arising out of the existence of these three municipal governments within one area.

Dr. Johnstone has been gathering material on this subject for five years and augmented by the study in the Far East during the next year the work will be published in book form.

An automobile trip across the continent to San Francisco will precede the voyage on the Dollar Line Steamer President Taft. Dr. Johnstone will address the George Washington University Club at San Francisco on March 8 and will sail, accompanied by Mrs. Johnstone, on March 9. Plans are also being contemplated for an address before the Los Angeles alumni club.

The problem of the international life in Shanghai is a practical one in that the seventh largest port in the world is the scene of constant strife and much American capital is invested there. The situation of three municipal governments within one area is complicated by the fact that a number of the Chinese have moved into the International settlement for protection and for this reason a number of the internationalists have moved out. The Council governing the International Settlement has built roads beyond the boundaries of the settlement for the convenien.. of these citizens. A complete study of the problems has never before been undertaken.

Dr. Johnstone has been connected with the political science department of George Washington since 1930. He completed his undergraduate work at Denver University and obtained his Ph.D. at Stanford University.

WHO'S WHO ON THE CAMPUS

College Humor in its January issue scooped The Hatchet's Who's Who in citing among the outstanding collegians," William Helvestine. The magazine backed up its statement by listing as Bill's accomplishments the presidency of the Student Council, the winning of a football etter, and the winning of a place among the University's three handsomest men in last year's Cherry Tree contest.

But that's only the beginning of the campus achievements of this popular young man. "Bill," as he is known to everyone, proves the fallacy of the idea that a student can't hold a job, get good grades, and be outstamding in activities, too. Besides working for the Government and being a sophomore in the Law School, Helvestine is a former president of Gate and Key and vice president of the Interfraternity Council.

As a member of O. D. K., Bill was chairman of the committee in charge of the football banquet this year. Showing his versatility, by way of athletics, he was pitcher on the varsity baseball team last year, and by way of publications, a former Hatchet reporter. Bill is a native Washingtonian and a member of Acacia fraternity.

Law Grads Act As Counsels in Famous Trade Case in Akron

Graduating in the same class from the George Washington University Law School in 1916, E. F. Haycraft, and Pgad B. Morehouse, now prominent attorneys were associated in the same case for the first time when the Federal Trade Commission hearings on complaint against the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., opened last week in Akron, Ohio.

Haycraft has been attorney for the commission since receiving his LL.B. degree from the University. It has been said he "cut his teeth for Uncle Sam" when he broke in under Frank Heney, famous attorney for the commission, who prosecuted the noted meat packing cases of 1917-1918. He also served eight years on the commission's board of review. Violations of the Clayton act, which is the complaint in the present case, has been his specialty for years.

Morehouse has been with the commission for three years and has been active in cases involving alleged advertising ethics violations. He has represented the government in the Thermoid Belting, Art Loom Corporation and Brown Fence & Wire Co., cases.

Cherry Tree Knows Not What Your Chances of Graduating Are, Officials Say

Failure to Receive Blanks for Personal Biographies Not Dependent Upon Official Standing, but Because Picture Is Not Taken

Apparently some seniors felt that they were either not graduating or were being deliberately slighted by The Cherry Tree last week, if anxious inquiry or angry protest is any indication of the situation. The anxious calls or protests followed a form letter sent out by the Annual in which it called for the senior's list of activities to be included in this year's edition.

Those seniors not receiving the letter in many cases thought they were not eligible for graduation and made hasty investigations. To allay any misinterpretations, Senior Editor Margaret Liebler explained today that these letters were only sent to those seniors who had their photographs taken at Casson studio.

"The letter is no indication as to whether one will or will not graduate," Liebler stated. "We sent those letters out to those seniors who have already been photographed for this year's Cherry Tree.

"Since there was so much inquiry I wish The Hatchet would explain that the letter contained a note asking for the list of activities in which the student participated while studying here. We had enclosed a form for this purpose, and that is all there was to it.

"There is no need to worry, nor did we mean any offense if we seem to have omitted anyone. It is done this way to keep the files straight." She then added we might say something about this new subscription plan. It seems that to make the purchase of the 1934 Cherry Tree an easy affair, the Cherry Tree business staff has outlined two types of payment plans.

One plan calls for a full payment of $4 for the purchase of the Annual. The second is an installment plan whereby the student may make a down payment of $2 now and a final payment of $2 when he receives the book.

The editors stated that there will be no extra Cherry Trees printed. Only a sufficient number of copies will be printed to cover the advance orders. Students or faculty members desiring to order a copy of the Cherry Tree may do so by filling out the Order Blank enclosed in this week's copy of The Hatchet.

Glee Clubs Resume Work After Exams

Panhel, Engineer Engagements Are Scheduled for Near Future

"Intensive rehearsals for Men's and Women's Glee Clubs will be the order this week." This announcement by Dr. Robert H. Harmon follows the slight lull allowed members of both clubs during exam. week. Both of these organizations face full schedules during the next two months and the former custom of two rehearsals a week for each club will, therefore, be resumed.

One of the outstanding engagements of the near future for both organizations will be at the Panhellenic luncheon on Saturday, February 10, at the Mayflower Hotel, when Mrs. Roosevelt will be the guest of honor.

Two joint concerts will be given by the Men's and Women's Clubs, one a vesper program at the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church on Sunday afternoon, February 25, the other on the afternoon of March 17 at the Washington Missionary College in Takoma Park, Md. The men will sing at the Engineers' Ball at the Kennedy-Warren on February 9.

This week Dr. Harmon plans to revise the roster of probationary members of both clubs and to issue a list of permanent members.
